CHAPTER XX.

ONE morning shortly after this Mrs. Hilmyer met Jim Kenner on the main street of the village near the warehouse and asked to chat with him. "I'm still yorlin' on yore case," she told him. "The only trouble is that you are too backward to help. I serve you up with different grays at every meal an' keep on on the sideboard to eat cold twist meals, but if you don't come up some line an' take a hand she'll want a change o' diet."

Kenner's honest face reddened. "I'm afraid I'm gittin' too old, Mrs. Hilmyer," he laughed in high pleasure. "I give you my word, I worry all the time about my age."

"Worry?" she laughed. "What does age amount to? The older a man gets in this life the younger he is in the next, an', from all accounts, the next is better an' keeps a body at a standstill. Lord, you don't look like a fellow that worries about anything unless it's for the lack of some devilment. Mr. Hilmyer's told me how you love to be old Hanks. I reckon since Bob's gone the way he has you'll have it in for the old man, or, rather, he'll have it in for you all, because Mr. Hilmyer says Hanks predicted from the first that Bob'd come to no good. I ain't seed Mr. Hilmyer since Mrs. Dugan told me about it, but it'll worry 'im like ripe, fer, you know, just day before yesterday he let Bob have another two thousand to enlarge his business an. Enlarge, I say. A boy o' that age get to be spanked for what he's done—jest when folks was braggin' on 'im, an'—"

"Why, Mrs. Hilmyer"—Kenner's eyes were wide open in astonishment—"what are you talkin' about?"

"Talkin' about? Jim Kenner, do you mean to tell me that you, the biggest man gossiper in Darley, don't know what Bob Hanks has done and done?"

"I'm at the foot of it, Mrs. Hilmyer."

"Well, he shuply got that little orphan gal, Dora May, some'n' or other, from Louisville, out o' Mrs. Styles' boardin' school last night an' driv' 'er in a buggy to Springtown an' got a country preacher to marry 'em."

"Good Lord, Mrs. Hilmyer!"

"That's what he done," went on Mrs. Hilmyer. "They spent the night at the preacher's house, tuck breakfast, an' driv' back to Darley. They've put up permanent at the Johnston House. Mrs. Dugan went up and seed what Bob had registered 'R. O. Hanks and Lady,' bless you! An' that chit of a gal in short dresses hardly below the knee!"

Mrs. Dugan says while she was thar a-lookin' old Hanks come in as yellow as a squash an' axed if they had riz yet. The clerk told 'im no—that the bridegroom had told 'im to say that he was not at home to any callers, an' ef it was about business they wanted to see 'im to refer 'em to his head salesman at the store. Did you ever? Is it any wonder his daddy wouldn't set 'im up in business? The worst big head on earth is the sort that young boys has when they think they can start in to raisin' a family. Bob couldn't stand prosperity, I reckon. Mrs. Dugan says Mrs. Styles has dismissed school for the rest o' the week an' 'is walkin' about the campus on her hands with 'er feet in the air. It seems that the gal was put in Mrs. Styles' care by some kin o' hern, an' the old lady don't know what she's doin' about it. Thar's some secret about who an' what the gal is anyway. Mrs. Styles is afraid 'im will bust up the institution. Mrs. Dugan says it will help the school—that folks will send their scrub gals thar to git 'em married off. Hahn't they heard it at the warehouse?"

"They hadn't when I left about twenty minutes ago, Mrs. Hilmyer."

"Well, I won't stop you. I see Mrs. Stillman leavin' over the fence without a bonnet or shawl in this wind. I'll go an' ease 'er up. I know yore ecclin' to tell it to yore gang."

A few minutes after Kenner had exploded his information at the office old Hanks came in. He was pale, and his skin looked as dry as old parchment, but he was eating roasted peanuts, breaking the husks with steady, prong-like finger nails. He sat down without a word and dropped a handful of hulls into the stove.

"Jim," he said suddenly to Kenner, "what did you ever do about that account Bill Haskill was a-ov'n' you?"

"I got it yet," said Kenner, throwing a knowing smile around the room.

"Well, ef you'll discount it enough to make it interesting, I'll buy it. I've got 'im tied up with a piece o' land o' his'n, an' I want the land."

"I reckon we kin make a deal," said the cotton buyer as he wiped a smile from his face mouth with his long hand. "I reckon you heard that Bob had taken to hisself a helpmeet?"

The group hung on the old man's reply. Hanks crushed another peanut in his hand and raised the best part of it to his lips.

"I don't care what he does," he said. "I told you all you'd make a fool of 'im, an' now I reckon you see I was right." He was staring accusingly at Hilmyer. "You started it," he blurted out. "Thar ain't no boy in forty million that kin keep from gittin' the big head with seel responsibilities put on 'im all of a sudden, but I ain't a-carin'." I reckon you know how to git yore money back."

"Oh, I don't know that this means absolute ruin," said Hilmyer in his own defense. "Somehow I've got faith in Bob yet. A boy full o' puppy love will sometimes act reckless, but it may end all right."

"At this juncture Bob Hanks himself came in. He wore his best clothes, and his boots had been freshly polished. His glance, a rather frank one, Kenner thought, rested dubiously on his father's face.

"They told me at the hotel that you wanted to see me, father," he said. "If I'd known you—"

"Yes, I called an' left my cyard," answered Hanks, with a sneer, "but I wasn't in no hurry. I jest called on a little matter o' business. You sorter got me to promise a week ago that I'd he'n you put in that stock o' dry goods, but I find out that my present intentions won't permit of it. When I thought favorably of it, you was a unmarried man, with jest yoreself to look after an' yore board paid by another party, but now you've tuck the best quarters at the hotel an' got a high priced dress-maker runnin' round to put hems on yore wife's skirts to kiver up yore folly, an' it's different. No; I won't put a cent in that business o' yore'n, an', moreover, I want to say right now that as soon as Mr. Trabeu gits back from the country he'll stick a clause in my private papers that'll keep you an' that schoolgal from benefitin' by my death."

"Oh, I knew all this would come," Bob said in a regretful tone to George, who was eying him in slow wonder, "but I ain't the fool I look, George. Make Jake go out o' the office, an' I'll tell you folks all about it."

The negro did not have to be informed that he was not wanted, and with a sly laugh, half of apology, he hurried out into the warehouse.

"You could be a big enough fool for any use an' not be as big a one as you look," said old Hanks, with a sneer.

"Look y' here, young man," demanded Kenner, "didn't you tell me t'other day that you was goin' to let up on that racket?"

"I remember tellin' you I wasn't goin' to steal the girl out for any more buggy rides," said Bob, with a smile. "There will be no need of that in the future, I hope."

"So that's what you meant?" laughed Kenner.

"Yes; that's what I meant."

Bob drew one of the high revolving stools up near the stove and got up on it, his heels resting on one of the rungs. His new broadcloth trousers glistened in the light from the window.

"I see I'll have to tell you all about it from the first," he began in a strange, confident tone. "I don't ask anybody any odds, an' I wouldn't bother to explain to most folks, but I'll acknowledge I want you fellows down here to think well of me, for you are all business men and I'm a business man."

"Thar's business men o' yore grade in every pore house an' asylum in Amer-ica."

"Now, you keep quiet if you want me to tell about this thing," said Bob. "I am a business man. I know how to make money. Everything I've put my hand to since I got a start has turned out a fair profit. If I couldn't make money faster than you, father, I'd take in my sign. You've always been afraid of big deals. 'Go slow' has been your motto, an' it's hunting you to your grave. Now, this is the way the whole blamed thing come up. I'm old enough to marry, and that girl!"

"Old enough the devil!" broke in Hanks. "You look like you are with that face on yore'n."

Slugging Methods Adopted.
Chicago, Aug. 22.—Captain Clancy of the stockyards police station announces that a man who had been arrested with a number of others for beating a non-unionist employed in the stockyards, had confessed to him that Local Union No. 213 of Truckmen's union had unanimously voted to adopt slugging methods in connection with the stockyards strike and that the 600 members of the organization had been divided into squads whose duty was to drag non-union men from streetcars and beat them.

Typoid Attacks a Town.
Allen, Md., Aug. 22.—There are now over 100 cases of typhoid fever at Mt. Savage, seventy-five of the patients being confined to bed. The epidemic is caused by a contaminated spring, and thus far no official action has been taken toward stamping out the disease, which is confined to men and boys, there being only two women victims.

A Failing Off Is Noted.
St. Louis, Aug. 22.—The attendance at the World's Fair for the past week almost equaled that of the week previous, although the past week was not marked with so many attractions. The total number of admissions for the past week amounted to 641,283, and the total for the week previous was 666,607.

Proceeds to Vladivostok.
Tien Tsing, Aug. 22.—Lieutenant Newton A. McCully, U. S. N., who has been observing the operations at Port Arthur for his government, arrived here Sunday. He left Port Arthur on a junk Aug. 14 and came by Shan Hai Kwan. The lieutenant acted as an escort for three French women from Port Arthur. He left here this morning for Vladivostok via Mingtung.

Resisted to the Death.
Evansville, Ind., Aug. 22.—In Monroe township, Pike county, Sunday, Thurlow Grim was fatally shot by Constable Rance. Rance tried to arrest Grim, when the latter resisted. Grim was a well-known attorney and had been dodging a warrant for over a year.

STARTLING QUERY

Is Crime on the Increase Among the Women of Indiana?

FIGURES INDICATE IT

State Statistician Johnson Points to Alarming Increase of Inmates of Women's Prison.

At the Prisons For Males, on the Other Hand, There Is a Falling Off.

Indianapolis, Aug. 22.—More interesting figures regarding the penal and reform institutions of Indiana have been prepared by State Statistician Johnson, and they are certainly startling in their nature. These figures show that crime among women is on the increase in the state, while male criminals, at least the number confined in the state's institutions, are considerably fewer than in previous years. The alarming increase in one year from forty-four to sixty-six is the record at the women's prison. At the institutions for males, on the other hand, there has been a steady decrease in the last five years. These figures, Mr. Johnson thinks, speak for themselves. There is another evil which the statistician points out, and that is that altogether too many vagrants are cared for in the county jails. With the great opportunity for men who really want work to secure employment, Mr. Johnson points out that there is no reason why there should be any vagrants in the state, and he declares that there should be an amendment of the state laws to punish such offenders so severely that they would not remain long in Indiana.

MINE WORKERS MAY SUE

Effort to Lift Embargo on Indiana Coal May Be Made.

Indianapolis, Aug. 22.—It is reported on good authority that the executive council of the United Mine Workers of America will take steps at its meeting in Indianapolis tomorrow to break the embargo on Indiana coal.

It is understood that the officials of the United Mine Workers have sought legal advice on the situation in Indiana as affecting coal transportation. Whether or not the executive council will take the lead or assist in bringing a suit is, of course, problematical at this time.

W. B. Wilson, secretary of the United Mine Workers, was reticent when seen regarding the Indiana embargo. If suit should be filed the charge against the defendant railroad companies probably would be conspiracy against interstate commerce.

A Hoosier Darius Green.

Nashville, Ind., Aug. 22.—Shouting for help and hanging head downward from the roof of a barn with his feet entangled in the ropes of a "flying machine," Charles Scroggins, a Brown county inventor, was relieved of his misery after a half hour of suffering. The inventor had been constructing his machine for two years, and when he attempted to soar through the air a rope caught and he was left hanging by his feet. His aged father, being unable to aid his son, mounted a horse and rode a half mile to summon aid. A sensation was caused in this vicinity last fall when Scroggins announced that he would fly over Nashville with his wooden wings. After this attempt he was found with a broken arm lying beside his machine.

Going After Wife Deserters.

Indianapolis, Aug. 22.—An important question is to come before the state board of charities at its meeting to be held at Terre Haute Nov. 19. An effort will be made to have the organization unite on a bill to be presented to the next legislature making wire e-section a felony. New York now has such a law, and it is proposed to draft a bill along the lines of the Eastern statute. Backed by the state board, it is believed such a measure can be put through the legislature.

Motion to Strike Out.

Indianapolis, Aug. 22.—The attorneys for James Gillespie, held in Ohio county for the murder of his sister, Elizabeth Gillespie, have filed a motion in the supreme court to strike out the brief of Attorney General Miller in the habeas corpus proceedings brought by Gillespie against Sheriff Harry Rump. The claim is made that Mr. Miller was not authorized to appear officially in the case and that he did not appear as an attorney for Rump.

Dead From Mosquito Bite.

Winamac, Ind., Aug. 22.—August Anderson, a farmer residing ten miles north of this place, is dead from the bite of a mosquito. Two weeks ago Anderson chopped down a tree and suffered a slight abrasion of the skin on his right hand. A mosquito bit him in the wound and a few days later Anderson began to suffer intense pain in his body. Blood poison resulted and he died in great agony.

Caught by Live Wire.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 22.—William Matherly was instantly killed by a live wire while working at New River bridge. He was trying to repair a motor used about the bridge work.

THE SULTAN'S PLEDGE

The Porte Was Not Looking for This Turn in Affairs.

Constantinople, Aug. 22.—A note from American Minister Leishman dated Aug. 16 was handed to the Turkish authorities within twelve hours after the receipt by the minister of the Turkish note of Monday. In this note Mr. Leishman holds the government to its solemn undertaking, coming direct from the sultan, respecting equal treatment with other nations for the United States, concerning the question of educational institutions.

This allusion to the imperial pledge apparently embarrassed the porte, which had previously announced that it would ignore the formal verbal assurances which Minister Leishman declared he had received. It is considered improbable that the porte will reply to the minister's note and, therefore, the question is looked upon as shelved pending the execution of the process of recognition, when, it is considered not improbable, fresh difficulties will arise.

Notwithstanding the assertion by Izet Pasha, the secretary of the palace, that $25,000 had been deposited as compensation due to an American citizen at Smyrna for land illegally taken, no such deposit has yet been made.

Looking for Big Strike.

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 22.—President T. J. Smith of District 19, United Mine Workers of America, has left for Indianapolis to attend a meeting of the national executive board on Tuesday. Firmly believing that no compromise will be reached in this district and that a general strike will occur on Sept. 1, President Smith will ask for a weekly allowance of $25,000 for the district during the progress of the strike. There are 8,000 union miners in the district, and they believe they can take 4,000 non-union men out with them. If this is true the allowance means that each family will receive about $2 per week.

Situation at Liao Yang.

Mukden, Aug. 22.—The belief is increasing here that the Japanese do not intend to make a direct attack on General Kuropatkin's position at Liao Yang. The movements of the Japanese and other information indicate that they will try rather to force an engagement in the vicinity of Mukden. A small fight occurred on Aug. 19 on the Motien pass road, seven miles east of Liao Yang, but its results were unimportant. As the rains have rendered the lower grounds impassable, the main Japanese army has fallen back to the hills.

A CYCLONE'S FURY

Have Created at St. Paul and Minneapolis by Raging Wind.

TWELVE LIVES ARE LOST

Storm Which Raged Down the Valley of the Mississippi Spent Itself on the Twin Cities.

The Business Center of Each Was Smitten and Great Was the Damage Done.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 22.—Death to twelve persons and destruction to property both private and public estimated in round numbers at $1,000,000, rode on a screeching gale which tore down the valley of the Mississippi at about 9 o'clock Saturday night from a point somewhere near the confluence of the Minnesota and Mississippi rivers near Fort Snelling. At about that point the fury of the elements seemingly divided and with a roar descended on the Twin Cities and their environs.

Beginning at a point below Fort Snelling there is the first known evidence that the storm struck with damaging effect. It came from the southwest, and, howling in its fury, uprooted trees and demolished buildings in its pathway toward St. Paul.

It tore off two spans of the high bridge completely. There the bridge connected with the high bluffs at West St. Paul, and it is 180 feet above the river. This mass of steel was carried to the flats below, where flying steel girders and heavy planks fell on several small frame houses of the flat-dwellers and crushed them. None of the occupants of these houses was hurt, they having seen the storm coming and taken refuge in the caves in the hillside. The storm tore along the flats, uprooting trees on Harriet Island and with a deafening roar and the hiss and splash of falling sheets of rain, it struck this city at the Wabasha street bridge. Here was located at the bridge entrance, on opposite sides of Wabasha street, the Tivoli concert hall and the Empire theater, both of which were fairly crowded with men watching the performance. Both buildings stood on the edge of the bluff overlooking the river, with sides of the buildings open, and were wrecked. The full force of the tornado struck them. The buildings began to sway and rock and the audiences became panic-stricken. Men and boys rushed over each other for the exits. The lights went out and the sheet lightning flashes, one following another with gunfire rapidity, illuminated a scene of pandemonium which was intensified by the crash of glass and the tearing of timbers as the frame structure gave way before the tornado. Sections of the roof were blown through the air and landed east in Third street, a block distant. Underneath the debris of the Tivoli were found when the storm had passed the mangled bodies of Lorin F. Hokanson, one of the employees in the concert hall, and George Kewton, one of the audience.

On the storm rushed to the northeast, over the wholesale district, and every building facing the south from Wabasha street for blocks east on Third street had scarcely a whole pane of glass in any window, while many on the opposite side were also broken. Tin roofs on several buildings were rolled in bundles and deposited in the street. Flying plate glass mixed with the rain, battered everything which stood before it, and horses and carriages were swept along the streets, which in an incredibly short space of time, were filled with water. Wires were torn down and part of the city was in darkness. The high buildings reaching skyward above the smaller ones on East Third street were shaken to their foundations. The fine large plate-glass windows were blown in and several skylights were blown out.

In the path of the wind stood the long freight warehouse of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, and a section of this building about 500 feet long was cut out of the middle end, the small section of the end about fifty feet standing at the extreme east side. Out East Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets, the conditions were practically the same, except that on East Seventh more damage was done to roofs and glass. At the East Seventh street stations of the Northern Pacific and Northwestern railways ten poles loaded with wires were blown down in a tangled mass. Telephone service between the twin cities was out for three hours, while all the telegraph communication was cut off entirely.

MINNEAPOLIS SUFFERS

Business Center There Was Hard Hit by the Storm.

Minneapolis, Aug. 22.—The worst wind and rain storm in the history of this place broke here Saturday night about 8:30, when three storms, from north, west and east, gathered and broke over the city. Hundreds of buildings were badly damaged, all the great wire systems were paralyzed and thousands of beautiful shade trees uprooted. For three minutes the wind blew at the rate of 90 miles an hour and the rain fell in torrents. So far as known two people are dead. The center of the storm seemed to hit the business district at the corner of Nicollet avenue and Sixth street. Here the immense front of the Glass Block was blown out and a huge skylight blown off, the rain doing damage to stock that cannot be estimated. All of the stores in this district had windows blown in and all suffered more or less damage to stock. The mammoth skylight of the Guaranty Loan building fell twelve stories through the interior court, and great damage was done by water to the offices. The streetcar service was tied up until noon Sunday, trolley wires being down in all parts of the city as the result of the storm. Many of the fine residence districts of the city suffered terribly, but the greatest and irreparable damage was done to Minneapolis' beautiful shade trees. The south side of the city suffered most. Hardly a tree is left along Portland and Park avenues, and the entire side of the city is a mass of splintered trunks, fallen wires, broken windows and damaged churches and homes. The loss is estimated at fully $1,000,000.

The storm did great damage at St. Louis Park, a manufacturing suburb, situated about six miles from Minneapolis. Three persons were killed and twenty-five injured.

A courier from Wacoula says that place was visited by a tornado which devastated the country for miles about, and from the meager reports obtainable four persons were killed and several injured. The Minneapolis & St. Louis depot was demolished, but several persons who had taken refuge escaped injury.

Destruction Elsewhere.

Glencoe, Minn., Aug. 22.—A tornado struck the townships of Rich Valley and Bergen Saturday night about 6 o'clock, killing four persons and destroying thousands of acres of grain and many barns, houses and sheds.

Hector, Minn.—A tornado ten miles northeast of this place caused damage estimated in the thousands. Lightning struck many houses, burning ten to the ground. Particulars are hard to obtain.

Stillwater, Minn.—The terrific wind storm that created such havoc in St. Paul and Minneapolis also reached Stillwater and vicinity, and the estimated damage along the St. Croix river is placed at from $75,000 to $100,000.

Chicago Storm-Swept.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—A severe wind and electrical storm passed over the city last evening, doing much damage in the suburbs. Several small fires were started by the lightning, and the downpour of rain was so heavy that many basements were flooded and much damage done to property. Northwest of the city hundreds of acres of corn were beaten down by the wind and rain, and much of it will be lost.

THE STRIKERS' CAUSE

Is Now Championed by the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—At the regular meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor, which was held Sunday afternoon, it was decided to ask the general public for aid for the men now out on strike in the stockyards. The secretary of the federation was also instructed to request President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor to call a special meeting of the executive council of that body for the purpose of devising ways and means of sustaining the strikers. The resolution commenced by a narration of the condition at the yards, as viewed from the standpoint of the strikers. It asserts that the wages of the laborers in the packinghouses were 18 cents an hour, but the employment was so irregular that their total weekly earnings did not amount to more than $7. It is then declared that the packers attempted to lower the wages of the laborers, and the skilled workmen, believing that this would be followed by a reduction in their own rate of pay, decided to go out on strike in support of the unskilled men. The attitude of the packers in refusing to confer with the men is criticised, and the resolution closes with the statement that if the strikers fail the community will suffer by the wrong that will have been perpetrated upon them, and appeals to the public for financial support.

Across the Country to Greensburg.

Somewhat weary and travel stained and slightly tanned by the fierce rays of an August sun, an auto party returned at 10:45 Sunday night from a round trip from Seymour to Greensburg, in the Blisk car were T. S. Blisk, Alpha Cox, Dr. Wm. Coryell and E. A. Remy. Dr. G. G. Graessle and Theo. Groub rode in the Groub auto. The start was made from Cox's Pharmacy at 8:37 Sunday morning. The route was through Azalia, Elizabethtown, Alert, Westport, Horace and Harris City, reaching Greensburg in good time for dinner. The distance is about 43 miles and was covered in 2 hours and 23 minutes.

At Greensburg the tourists fell into the hands of Judge D. A. Myers and Capt. Dan Perry, who in some way had been apprised of the coming of the Seymour party and had prepared a sumptuous dinner at the Hotel DeArmond. During the afternoon the party were shown over Greensburg which is a beautiful little city. At 4:30 they were invited to the home of Judge Myers for luncheon which was heartily enjoyed. After an hour most delightfully spent, the crowd lined up in front of the Judge's home and were "shot at" with a kodak. Then the Seymour people mounted their cars at 5:34 and departed for home with the one regret that there were not fewer miles between those hospitable Greensburg people and our own.

The return trip was through Hartsville, Newbern and Columbus and the road was covered in 2 hours and 50 minutes, counting out stops. Save a few short delays the trip was unmarred by any mishaps. The ride from Columbus to Seymour by moonlight was one long to be remembered. To Tip Blisk and Theodore Groub the other members of the party are grateful for the splendid trip.

The eastern democrats never were in favor of Tom Taggart for chairman and now his methods are being criticised by some of the Parker democratic organs. And western democrats are dissatisfied because Belmont and Sheehan are about the whole executive-committee themselves. There is trouble ahead for the organization.

In 1892 the democratic party cried "robber tariff" and too many people took this cry seriously. Grover Cleveland and a democratic congress were elected. The McKinley tariff law was repealed and a democratic law took its place. The result was disastrous to all lines of trade and industry. The people are not ready for any more democratic tariff tinkering.

Prize Essay.

Below is published in full Miss Minnie Isaacs' essay that won first prize, a gold medal, in the contest held during teachers institute at Brownstown last week. Miss Isaacs is the daughter of Mr. Jesse Isaacs, of Surprise.

"THE FALL OF JERUSALEM"

"When ye therefore shall see the abomination of desolation spoken of by Daniel the prophet stand in the holy place, Then let which be in Judea, flee into the mountains let him who is on the house-top not come down to take any thing out of the house neither let him who is in the field return back to take his clothes."

These few words were spoken by our Lord in relation to the fall of the Jewish nation which was destined to take place some seventy years after the crucifixion. The history of Syria is to some extent at least a synopsis of the history of the world. Syria, indeed, is marked out by nature as a meeting place of the nations. Westward it looks toward Europe, the adopted, if not the original home of the Arvan race. To the East across the desert, lies the great river, on whose banks has grown up that ancient culture, which has bequeathed to us much of our most familiar knowledge. In the South its inhabitants are brought into contact with the immortal civilization of the Nile and in the North with still more mysterious races, in whom modern research has as yet but little to tell. No wonder that Syria has been the battlefield of the dominant powers of the world, Babylonians, Hytlus, Egyptians, Persians, Greeks and Romans each in their turn were lords of part if not of the whole of Syria. It is necessary to give a detailed account of all the sufferings that these people went through. The point at which we wish to arrive is the fall of the holy city under the power of the Romans and the extinction of the Jewish nation never more to have a foot-hold upon earth. It was the month of April of the year seventy of our era. The Roman army numbered fully one hundred thousand men. Titus was the unconquerable leader. The host came on in all its roll of splendor. Rome, itself had perhaps never before made a more formidable display of power. The cities throughout the country had fallen one by one to the invaders power. All the Jews flocked to Jerusalem to take a last dreadful stand in behalf of their country and the temple of their God. They were here now for the avowed purpose of conquering or dying for the cause they had at heart. What a picture is suggested in the imagination by the fearful tale. From the Northern mountains the forests were fairly swept to furnish timber for the military engines. The herds and harvests had disappeared from upon the plains that the invaders might have food. How the mind of the world in those days was so fastened upon those high so fearfully contested. The grim veteran, wearing the purple at Rome thought of his son there in armor and exalted or trembled as the messenger brought the news. Far and wide from Asia, from Africa and from Europe had been gathered the soldiery which the genius of Rome had been able to turn into such an instrument of iron. In all corners of the earth men and women hung expectant upon word from the great Hebrew stronghold, for sons and neighbors were these among strikers. Very appalling was now the situation of the defenders. The hot summer sun beat down upon the crowds in the city, still immense in number, though the war had swept them off in troops. Worse even than this a dreadful famine began to prevail. The fighting men, ravenous, sought for food within the houses, and put to torture the wretched inmates to make them disclose their hidden stores. Wives snatched food from their husbands, children from their parents, and mothers from their babies, for the closest bonds had loosened. For example, once the lawless zealots smelt the savor of roasting meat in one grand dwelling belonging to a lady, they rushed in and asked for the meat but even turned away in horror when she uncovered the remains of her own little child whom she had been eating. Certain poor wretches made their way by night beyond the walls in search of herbs that might support life. Part were caught by the Romans and put to death in the sight of their own friends. Those who returned were robbed by the Jewish soldiers. Titus now completely surrounded the city producing distress so great that the bodies of those who had perished by the famine were cast into the ravines, and lay in the streets of the city in heaps many desperate Jews leaped from the high walls. Horrors became so bad that even the hard hearted Titus called God to witness that he was not responsible. But still he pressed the siege. It was announced one day that twenty soldiers of the Roman army had scaled the walls and had sounded their trumpets from the top. Titus was at hand with support and the city was taken. From the ninth hour of the night to the fifth hour of the day neither side had advantage. From hour to hour it was a constant sortie and repulse until at length the dreadful day for the Hebrews arrived, the anniversary of the destruction of the temple by the power of Babylon. Fire was applied to the sacred temple. Titus would have avoided this for he did not care to destroy that which was the glory of the world. But the fire spread however, fanned by a tempest in the flame. Both Jew and Roman grasped one another that the bodies were piled against the very altar and the blood ran down the steps. The ground could not be seen for the dead. The furious priests brandished for weapons the leaden seats and spits of the temple service, and rather than yield threw themselves into the fire. All was now over. The city was razed to the ground with the exception of a few towers. 1,100,000 Jews were killed and 97,000 were captured and thrown into slavery. This remnant scattered throughout the dominions of the earth. The fight maintained until the last, they thinking the Messiah would come to their rescue. The entire nation was thrown into a state of punishment which has now lasted for 19 centuries and still lasts. Since that time the Jews have undergone untold suffering and injury. Never has he been the owner of a nationality. Never has his look for Messiah appeared to deliver them from bondage, but the deed they committed upon Calvary has been and still continues to be laid upon them from generation to generation. But the Jews however, will always exist, as their seed is not to be destroyed. If we can not believe in the coming Messiah as they do; if we cannot subject ourselves to their belief; if we cannot make ourselves miserable and unhappy on account of our forefathers share on Calvary, let us hope that the poor Jews may be enlightened, and that the punishment inflicted upon them since that fatal day may be lessened and that we may admire the faith and constancy of their religion on the last days of Jerusalem.

GIVES GOOD CAUSE

Eminent Prohibition Instructor Comes Out Emphatically For Roosevelt.

AND HE HAS REASONS FOR IT

Prof. Walter S. Davis, Instructor of History in Richmond High School, Pays a High Tribute to the Character of the President.

(Danville Republican.)

In conversation with a representative of the Republican, Prof. Walter S. Davis, instructor in history in the Richmond high school, who is visiting his old home in Eel River township, gives numerous reasons why he would vote for Theodore Roosevelt this year. Prof. Davis has been a leading prohibitionist in Wayne county and eastern Indiana, and his views are noteworthy. He says:

"For twenty years I have followed with interest the career of Theodore Roosevelt. His life is a record of which every American may well feel proud. In every position that he has been called to fill, whether as a young man of twenty-three fighting corruption as a member of the New York general assembly, or later a member of the United States civil service commission or president of the New York police board or as assistant secretary of the navy or governor of New York, vice president of the United States, or finally as president, he has at all times stood for the highest ideals and standards of citizenship. The key to his character has been honesty and integrity in public and private life. In these days of money getting, the importance of having in the presidential chair a man whose whole life has been the embodiment of such principles cannot be overestimated. It is a hopeful sign that the people are placing in positions of trust and power men like Roosevelt and Joseph Folk.

"Their lives and characters are a protest against one of the chief dangers and weaknesses of our republic. Then again I admire President Roosevelt for treating the black men of the south as human beings. It is today a question whether the results of the civil war as embodied in the 13, 14 and 15th amendments are not now being largely nullified. Today it may well be asked whether the sacrifices of the Union soldier in behalf of human liberty were not in vain. The blind prejudice of the south against President Roosevelt which flashed out in every southern speech at the St. Louis convention may well cause alarm to every friend of human liberty. President Roosevelt rightly regards himself as president of the whole people and not of any class. Among his many sentences worthy to be written in letters of gold is this: 'I do not want to shut the door of hope on any class of our people.' For that reason he wanted to encourage the most deserving of the colored race. President Roosevelt has many other titles to popular favor. His insistence on Cuban reciprocity illustrates his regard for the sacredness of the Nation's promises. His settlement of the coal strike not only shows his moral courage but of itself places his administration among the greatest since the organization of our government. He may justly be regarded as the foremost champion of civil service reform among all our presidents. He thus has powerfully contributed to the eradication of the spoils system engrafted on the country in the days of Andrew Jackson. The appointment of the Panama canal commission strikingly illustrates the President's character. He refused to appoint politicians but selected the most capable engineers and engineers too, willing to go to Panama. The conduct of the Nation's foreign affairs under Secretary Hay has been beyond praise. The same may be said of every department of the government. Time is demonstrating the wisdom of such a decree that even the Fillips themselves prefer our rule to independence. This I gather from recent conversations with citizens of the Philippine islands.

"A favorite charge of opponents of Roosevelt is his 'love of war.' Yet truth compels one to say that what he did end the Philippine war which he received as a legacy from the McKinley administration but he has avoided other wars. There have been only two or three previous administrations in American history that have not had some war with which to deal, Indian or otherwise. Not only has the Rough Rider President whom his enemies charge with a love for the smell of powder avoided making foreign wars but he has used the moral influence of his great office to secure domestic peace. His action in the coal strike is an illustration of this. It must be remembered, too, that so far he has refused to send federal troops to interfere with state affairs—in Pennsylvania and Colorado. It was his administration which secured the reference of the Venezuelan trouble with England and Germany to The Hague tribunal. His administration is thus pre-eminently one of peace. As Conkling said of Grant: 'His greatness is not only that of things said, but of things done.' President Roosevelt's administration is one of achievement. Today much depends on the personal character of the president. In voting for Roosevelt, and upholding him in his honest and courageous course, the American voter will honor himself and his country and insure the present unparalleled prosperity which we now enjoy."

CATARH A COMMON COMPLAINT.

Catarh begins with a stubborn cold in the head, inflammation or soreness of the membrane or lining of the nose, discharge of mucus matter, headaches, neuralgia and difficult breathing, and even in this early stage is almost intolerable. But when the filthy secretions begin to drop back into the throat and stomach, and the blood becomes polluted and the system contaminated by the catarhal poison, then the sufferer begins to realize what a disgusting and sickening disease catarh is. It affects the kidneys and stomach as well as other parts of the body. It is a constitutional disease and as inhaling mixtures, salves, ointments, etc., are never more than palliative or helpful, even in the beginning of catarh, what can you expect from such treatment when it becomes chronic and the whole system affected? Only such a remedy as S. S. S. can reach this obstinate, deep-seated disease and purge the blood of the catarhal poison. S. S. S. purifies and builds up the diseased blood, and the inflamed membranes are healed and the excessive secretion of mucus ceases when new, rich blood is coming to the diseased parts, and a permanent cure is the result.

S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable and a reliable remedy for Catarh in all stages. Write if in need of medical advice; this will cost you nothing.

REDS WON AGAIN.

Jeffersonville Out Played By The Home Team.

Quite a creditable crowd witnessed the game yesterday afternoon between the Seymour reds and the Jeffersonville club. It was a fairly interesting game all through and in the last part it was exciting as both teams settled down and put up a hard contest. But the Reds had slightly the best of it from beginning to end. The score was 4 to 3 in favor of Seymour.

The batteries were Howard and Clegg for Seymour and Walker and Schan for Jeffersonville.

MAKE IT PUBLIC.

Publicity Counts That's What the People Want. Seymour Expression on the Subject.

Make it public. Tell the people about it. Gratitude promotes publicity. Grateful citizens talk. They tell their neighbors; tell their friends.

The news is too good to keep. "Bad backs" are numerous. So few understand the cause. Many Seymour people are learning. And better still they're being cured. Lame backs are lame no more. Weak ones regain their strength. This is the every-day labor in Seymour.

Of Doan's Kidney Pills Our citizens are making it public. Here's a case of it:

Mrs. George Heins, of East Second street says: "I suffered extremely with both my back and kidneys. Learning about Doan's Kidney Pills I procured them and their use regulated the action of the kidney secretions and banished the backache. They did me so much good that my husband went to Milhous' drug store and procured a box for himself as he suffered from a lame back. He obtained positive relief almost at once. He never had a remedy do him so much positive good. We can both conscientiously recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from their back or kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

INDIANA'S GREAT DAY.

Immense Gathering Looked For at World's Fair, September 1st.

Present indications point to a record breaking day at St. Louis, Thursday, September 1st, when the celebration of Indiana Day takes place at the World's Fair. The large number of Indiana people intending to be present at this great State function is shown by the advance requisitions for tickets to St. Louis the ensuing fortnight. The special low fares from Indiana to St. Louis over the Pennsylvania-Vandalia Lines has stimulated such interest that every provision is made or handling larger crowds of excursionists than at first expected.

Representatives of Indiana interests having exhibits in the Exposition, public officials and citizens generally who have already signified their intention of being at the greatest of all fairs on Indiana Day show that the next few days will see the heaviest movement from Indiana to St. Louis since the opening of the World's Fair. Governor Durnin and his staff will leave Indianapolis for St. Louis Wednesday, August 11th, over the Vandalia Line. On the evening of the same day, the Newsboys' Band of the Indianapolis News, consisting of about eight members, will also go over the Vandalia Line to St. Louis, the youngsters going to the World's Fair as the guests of the News.

W. W. RICHARDSON, Assistant General Passenger Agent, of the Pennsylvania Vandalia Lines, has received more inquiries at his office in Indianapolis from intending World's Fair visitors in the last week than at any time since the St. Louis Exposition was thrown open, which is taken as the most striking indication of the widespread interest manifested in the great celebration in honor of Indiana.

"BEAUTIFUL WINONA."

Excursions via Pennsylvania Lines to that Pretty Resort.

With the opening of the season at Winona Lake, May 10th, the sale of excursion tickets over the Pennsylvania Lines to that attractive resort in Northern Indiana will begin. Every summer passed there by thousands has only increased their desire to return. On the golf links, the tennis courts, the baseball or cricket grounds, the croquet field, or boating on the lake, fishing, canoeing, swimming, driving, or attending recitals and lectures by world-famed personages in the auditorium—whatever the diversion may be, the associations are of that congenial sort conferred by good society. This resort is noted as the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, attracting teachers and students from educational institutions of this and other countries.

Fifteen-day and season excursion tickets will be sold from ticket stations on the Pennsylvania Lines during the summer. For information about fares and times of trains, apply to local ticket agents, or to F. Van Dusen, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburgh, Pa. Illustrated literature describing attractions of Winona Lake may be had for the asking. Address S. C. Dickey, Secretary and General Manager, Winona Lake, Ind., who will give particulars regarding camping facilities, hotel accommodations, program of addresses by noted speakers and all other details.

NEW ELEMENT OF STRENGTH

Interesting Fact in Senator Fairbanks' Career Just Made Public.

Indianapolis, Aug. 22.—The fact which has just been brought to light by W. H. Smith of this city in preparing a biography of Charles W. Fairbanks that the senior Indiana senator volunteered to serve his country during the recent Spanish-American war will give the Republican ticket better standing than ever before if such a thing is possible, according to Republican leaders here. The fact that Senator Fairbanks never made any show of the tender of his services to the state, and that he never had to resort to such campaigning methods as the use of such material, but that it was left for a biographer six years afterward to make the announcement shows the real spirit in which the offer was made. While W. J. Bryan made a public display of his patriotism in volunteering for service in the Philippines and as colonel of the Third Nebraska managed to keep his name continually in the press dispatches, no word regarding his own action was ever uttered by Senator Fairbanks. Nor is he the one who has brought out the fact that he tendered his service to the state at this time. The difference between his quiet, unostentatious way of volunteering and that of the former Democratic leader has been remarked by thousands of people in this city. That it will be similarly regarded over the state is an assured fact. With men of proved patriotism and courage such as President Roosevelt, whose physical courage even his Democratic detractors do not gainsay, and Senator Fairbanks, whose true love of his country has thus been uncovered, as their leaders in the big presidential fray, it is believed here that the Republicans will profit to the extent of thousands of votes.

The evil of allowing druggists to sell poisons in sufficient quantities to cause death has been forced so pointedly on the attention of the people of the state in the last few months by such events as the Hartford City murder that the state board of pharmacy is preparing a bill to be presented to the next legislature to make the regulations for the sale of poisons so stringent that few druggists will take chances on disposing of the dangerous drugs to people with murderous or suicidal tendencies. An Evansville pharmacist has been asked to draft a bill providing for the questioning of people asking for poisons so vigorously that it is believed few contemplating using the drugs for evil purposes will be able to stand the test. This bill will be presented to the next legislature and an effort will be made to secure its passage.

Indianapolis is to have a day of its own at the St. Louis exposition. The fair managers have tendered Oct. 5 as the date, and it has been agreed to by the directors of the Commercial club. On that day a special excursion will be run to St. Louis. It is the purpose to induce as many people from cities along the line as possible to join the excursion and assist in booming the city and state. Literature setting forth the industrial and commercial advantages of the city and state will be prepared in quantities and two days will be used in spreading this literature over the fair grounds. From present indications the excursion will be a success and a large crowd is assured.

Blew With Cyclone Fury.
Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 22.—The southern section of Tippecanoe county was swept by a fierce cyclone, wrecking barns and outhouses and causing thousands of dollars damage to growing crops in this part of the state. Instead of being a benefit to the crop the rain and wind beat the corn and other cereals to the ground. Windmills were leveled and other damage done. At Romney, Stockwell, Mulberry, Dayton, Monroe, Hamilton and other small towns great damage was done to the houses by the wind. It is estimated that the storm did damage to the amount of $50,000 in this section.

Geneva, Aug. 22.—The police of this city are keeping close watch on the several anarchist colonies in this city, which ever since the assassination of M. Piehve have been unusually active.

AVERTED TROUBLE

One of Uncle Sam's War
Dogs Prevented Probable

SLIPPED BETWEEN THEM

When a Japanese Vessel Steamed Up to Disabled Russian Cruiser a Fight Looked Likely.

It Was Then That the American Vessel Stepped In Between the Belligerents.

Chefoo, Aug. 22.—The Japanese have swept the Russians from Pigeon bay and captured the northernmost fort of the western line of inner defenses at Port Arthur. The Russian artillery prevents the Japanese from occupying the fort on Pigeon bay.

Chefoo, Aug. 22.—Information from Port Arthur up to Aug. 18 shows that the besiegers have been reinforced by thirty regiments from General Oku's army. A general assault is expected to be made upon the fortress today.

Shanghai, Aug. 22.—Shanghai was thrown into a fever of excitement Sunday afternoon by the arrival of a Japanese torpedo boat which was sighted coming in from the south at 4:30 o'clock. She passed Woosung at full speed and started up the River Ju for Shanghai. The United States torpedo boat destroyer Chauncey slipped her cable and followed the Jap vessels. The Japanese boat was cleared for action. She anchored off the Cosmopolitan dock, where the Russian cruiser Askold is undergoing repairs. The Chauncey came to anchor practically between the dock and the Japanese destroyer.

A RUNNING FIGHT

Ended in the Destruction of the Cruiser Novik.

Tokio, Aug. 22.—After a severe engagement with the protected cruisers Chitose and Tsushima, the greyhounds of the Japanese navy, the fleet Russian cruiser has been vanquished. The fight occurred Sunday. After it the Novik in a sinking condition was run ashore in Korsakovsk harbor on the Island of Sakhalin.

The details of the fight are not known here, but it is evident that the Chitose and Tsushima caught up with the Novik Saturday and that a running fight ensued. The contest was resumed and terminated early Sunday morning. Captain Sukechiro Takahashi, who is in command of the Chitose, reported the engagement in a brief telegram which reached the navy department here Sunday afternoon. He says he first attacked the Russian cruiser Saturday afternoon and that on Sunday morning he inflicted heavy damage upon her. The Novik nearly sank, but she was beached at Korsakovsk.

The fate of the crew of the Novik is not known, but it is thought they abandoned their vessel and landed at Korsakovsk. The news of the destruction of the Novik has been received in a curious manner by the Japanese public. From a political standpoint it is highly satisfactory, for the Novik could have been most dangerous as a commerce destroyer; but, considering the matter from a sentimental standpoint, much regret is expressed at the loss. The Novik has been splendidly handled and bravely fought throughout the war, and Japanese naval officers and the public generally have frequently expressed admiration for the cruiser, her commander and her crew.

A QUESTION OF ENDURANCE

St. Petersburg Speculating on How Long Port Arthur Can Stand.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 22.—The latest reports from Port Arthur indicate that the garrison there is holding out with wonderful tenacity in the face of persistent desperate assaults. The only question is how long any body of troops can withstand such awful punishment and whether the garrison in the fortress can outlast the Japanese ammunition and men.

The report that thirty regiments have been drawn from General Oku to strengthen the attackers is believed to indicate that the Japanese southern army is in desperate straits and seems to show that the Japanese have not enough men to prosecute simultaneous campaigns of great magnitude in the north and south.

The report that the cruiser Novik has been sunk has not yet been published here. If it is true it will be greatly felt, for the gallant cruiser, which has been frequently mentioned in dispatches, has endeared herself to the whole nation by her tireless activity at Port Arthur, and it has been greatly hoped that she would reach Vladivostok in safety.

The attitude of the Japanese government in regard to China causes increasing uneasiness here. While it is believed that the dictatorial attitude assumed by Japan was adopted largely for its moral influence upon the Chinese, it is also taken to indicate that Japanese plans to make herself the dominant influence in the celestial empire.

A. H. Thurpes, Mgr. Wills Creek Coal Co., Buffalo, O., writes: "I have been afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble for years, passing gravel or stones with excruciating pains. Other medicines only gave relief. After taking FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE the result was surprising. A few doses started the brick dust, like fine stones, etc., and now I have no pain across my kidneys and I feel like a new man. FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE has done me $1,000 worth of good."

No Other Remedy Can Compare With It

Thos. W. Carter, of Ashboro, N. C., had Kidney Trouble and one bottle of FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE effected a perfect cure, and he says there is no remedy that will compare with it.
